Surgery of the Nose (Rhinoplasty)

Surgery to reshape the nose, (rhinoplasty) is among the most common plastic surgical procedures. This procedure can reduce or increase the size of the nose, remove an unwanted hump, change the shape of the tip or the bridge, narrow the width of the nostrils, or change the angle between the nose and the upper lip. The procedure is also used to correct problems resulting from injury and can help relieve certain breathing difficulties. The most important factor is having realistic expectations and the options to achieve your expectations can be discussed with your Plastic Surgeon during your consultation.
